

Lakewood Shores

Lakewood Ranch, Florida · From the high $300s

The coast, and a little less to worry about.

[COMMUNITY PHOTO: Lakewood Shores]

There is something about living near the water that resets a person. Lakewood Shores sits in Lakewood Ranch, one of the most popular master-planned areas on the Gulf Coast, inside a gated community built for the way Florida is meant to feel. Resort-style pools, pickleball, and tennis, with the beach and I-75 both close at hand.

Days that start by the pool and end watching the light go down. A gated, amenity-rich setting where the maintenance of a good life is built into the neighborhood, not added to your weekend. For a lot of families, this is the reward they have been working toward.

The Homes

Coastal single-family homes from 1,450 to 4,400 square feet, from the high $300s, the most accessible entry price in the Ridgeline lineup. Coastal architecture with hurricane-impact windows, built for the climate from the ground up. Featured plans are the coastal Sanibel and Bayshore.
