

Saratoga Pines

Wilton, New York · From the high $500s

Where the quiet does you good.

[COMMUNITY PHOTO: Saratoga Pines]

There is a kind of quiet you only get with room to breathe. Saratoga Pines sits on 300 acres of preserved open space in Wilton, with seven miles of walking and biking trails starting right outside your door. This is upstate New York the way people picture it, and then realize they want it.

Mornings on the trail. Afternoons at the clubhouse or on the pickleball courts. Evenings ten minutes from downtown Saratoga Springs, where the dining, the shopping, and the culture have been drawing people for generations. The local public schools are well regarded, which matters when this is the place you plan to stay.

The Homes

Ranch and two-story homes from 2,100 to 2,500 square feet, from the high $500s. All three signature plans are offered here: the single-level Aspen, the primary-down Sterling, and the two-story Hudson.
